It includes depository institutions, banks, savings banks, money services businesses, operators of credit card systems, trust companies, insurance companies, securities brokers and dealers, futures and options brokers and dealers, forward contract and foreign exchange merchants, securities and commodities exchanges, clearing corporations, investment companies, employee benefit plans, dealers in precious metals, stones, or jewels, and U.S. holding companies, U.S. affiliates, or U.S. subsidiaries of any of the foregoing. PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

On March 11, 2022, Representative Sherman introduced H.R. 7066, the “Russia and Belarus Financial Sanctions Act of 2022,” which would clarify that U.S. financial institutions that are obligated to comply with various sanctions against Russia and Belarus, must take all necessary and available actions to ensure that any entity it owns or controls, including any foreign subsidiaries, comply with the sanctions.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

On February 24, 2022, Russian President Vladimir Putin launched an unprovoked, illegal invasion of Ukraine. Beginning on February 21, 2022, the U.S. has worked with its allies to impose a wide range of sanctions, prohibitions, restrictions, and bans on Russia and Belarus. Many U.S. economic sanctions that apply to Russia and Belarus typically require a “U.S. person,” including U.S. financial institutions, to comply with the mandate. However, there is ambiguity regarding the extent to which foreign subsidiaries of U.S. financial institutions are required to comply with the sanctions. This bill is intended to clarify and ensure all aspects of U.S. financial institutions implement the relevant sanctions against Russia and Belarus.

SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS

Section 1. Short title

- This section establishes the short title of the bill as the “Russia and Belarus Financial Sanctions Act of 2022”.

Section 2. Requirements

- This section stipulates a U.S. financial institution, as that term is defined in the Code of Federal Regulations under section 561.309 of title 31, must take all necessary and available actions to ensure any entity owned or controlled by the financial institution complies with relevant sanctions against Russia and Belarus pursuant to another statute, regulation or order. Such sanctions may include, for example, limitations or prohibitions on transactions, deposits, loans, securities, or providing any other good or service.
